Nov 30: Fought at the Battle of Franklin. His company was attached to the 79th IL Infantry and served under the command of Col. Joseph Conrad on an exposed defensive line in front of the main line. Conrad was relatively new to Brigade command and when the Confederate attack rushed forward, he and his men were wholly overwhelmed, captured, and overran. Somehow men like Pvt. Squire Talbott survived this and retreated north towards the safety of defensive works only to have to dodge return fire from their own men. Squire made it through this fight and slipped north to Nashville and safety with his comrades. The war was beginning to look over.

1865 Apr: Transferred to 9th IL as units were being consolidated at the close of the war.
